To: USADB Executive Board

CC: Delegates
CC: Players:
CC: Basketball Community

We, the Basketball Players Advisory Council, would like to express our consensus and unanimous support for the current USADB Executive Board. With understanding of all the latest happening over the last couple of months with our former commissioner, Ira Hendon, we want to give our undeniable backing to the staff left behind.

It has come to our attention that there is friction of outside influences of major players who are seeking to aggravate or provoke further damage to an already dire situation. We believe that the focal point of USADB is still the players. The current board is a collection of competent individuals who have managed the organization during a time of a major crisis. Like any organization it is always best rally around those who are for the betterment of the organization and its future.

The former commissioner has left us in a situation that only time will heal such wounds. As a basketball community we need to give the current board an opportunity to regain our faith and trust in the current system and that they will continue to work diligently to bring order and stability back to our beloved organization.

The players stand united with the support of BPAC and its governing body as we approach a new season with hope of continued success in the future.

Sincerely,

BPAC
